HOUSE PASSES "DELAYED DRAFT" BILL

TRUMAN STOPS FOR BRIEF TALK IN COLUMBUS

President Renews Attack on Congress as Train Visits Ohio Capital.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O., June 18—President Truman rolling along toward the nation's capital stopped in Columbus long enough last night to renew his attack on the 80th congress.

He did not divulge any new feelings toward that body to the hundreds of persons jammed along the tracks in Union station but he reviewed his already publicized statements with continued vigor.

I think the 80th congres will go down in historic records as identified with special privilege, the President said at one point.

The 80th congress has emasculated the labor department, he said at another.

'It is now a travesty as a department and that's wrong, he added.

The President looking fit and sunburned from his western tour spoke from the rear platform of his special train. He arrived at Union station at 10:53 p. m. and pulled out at 11:25 p. m.

In that half hour a score of Democratic party leaders and workers in Ohio boarded the train for a brief handshake and a word with the President. The Ohio delegation stepped down before Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus spoke into the microphone to introduce the President.

Touches on Social Security

Throughout his brief speech made without notes, President Truman chopped away at the congress and its record.

He touched on social security briefly. He had just vetoed a bill, he said, that would have taken 750,000 persons off the social security lists.

He said "They should be broadening them."

He said he thought prices would interest the average man more than anything at the moment. He reviewed in a few words his battle with congress over price controls. Here too he laid the blame on congress. That body he said allowed the price spiral to begin.

The nation he said must find a means of stopping the spiraling of prices.

Then, the President turned to housing as he had earlier in the day at Indianapolis.

"The congress today emasculated the housing program" he said. "It is almost a crime against the public."

He said the proposed substitute housing bill would benefit no one except the men who make the loans on houses.

Cites Failure To Vote

As a finale to his appearance President Truman said that the 80th congress was elected because voters didn't turn out in large enough numbers.

"You got exactly what you deserve," he said.

Republicans he added, will be in convention soon telling voters what they have done for the people.

It's not what they've done for the people, but to the people he jibed.

The President said "If you allow yourself to be fooled twice, then you'll get just exactly what you deserve."

When the President ended his talk, Republican Mayor Rhodes stepped to the microphone to say a word of farewell. Someone had cut off the public address system and no one could hear his words.

Little things like that, the innocent "snafus" gave the President's visit its flavor. Like the raucous citizen jammed in the middle of the mob who yelled at intervals

Pour it on Harry."

Police Chief Charles M. Berry estimated the crowd at 2,000. The Ohio Democrat delegation seemed highly pleased by the late evening turnout.

Eugene H. Hanhart, the new Democratic state chairman, boarded the President's private car for a brief conference. Others in the delegation included

State Committee Treasurer John E. Elder; Walter F. Heer, Franklin county Democratic chairman; James W. Shocknessy, vice chairman of the state committee, and former Democratic U. S. Sen. James W. Huffman.

Robert Wallace, president of the Young Democratic League of O— and Robert M. Draper, party presidential candidate from the 12th district, also were in the party.

Possible Taft, Stassen Agreement Reported

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 18 — The possibility of a deal bringing supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft and Harold E. Stassen together in Republican presidential balloting arose today out of pre-convention conferences.

Aides of Taft and Stassen were reported meeting secretly in an effort to work out an agreement by which the former Minnesota governor might consent to help the Ohioans bid for top spot on the GOP ticket to be picked here next week.

Those who sat in said these meetings had no official sanction from the candidates themselves, who were reported prepared to deny that they are engaged in such maneuvers.

The informal conferences were described by both Taft and Stassen backers as being fenced in with conditions that easily might make any agreement impossible.

▶Stassen will not join any combination until the possibility of his own presidential nomination has been explored thoroughly in early balloting.

▶The Minnesotan's first choice is to switch to Senator Arthur Vandenberg if the Michigan lawmaker still figures materially in voting at any time Stassen might decide he has lost his own chance for the nomination.

▶The timing must be such that it not only would head off any possible bandwagon movement toward Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York but also would squeeze out such potential dark horses as House Speaker Joseph Martin.

These obstacles were not regarded as insurmountable by some of those in both camps who say they think a Taft-Stassen ticket would be a "natural."

Stassen said flatly months ago that he would not play second fiddle to Dewey. He and Taft traded blows publicly in the Ohio primary, but that break is reported on the way toward being healed.

Vandenberg a Puzzle

Vandenberg's place remained the most uncertain in any equation that might bring Stassen and Taft together.

The Michigan senator is expected to have something to say about his position as possible candidate on his arrival here probably Sunday afternoon.

Some of those close to him said that, unless he changes his mind, Vandenberg will reiterate that he is not a candidate does not want the nomination and will not connive in a draft. But, as before they said he will not Shermanize himself by saying that he would not accept the party nomination.

The general impression among early arriving delegates is that the boom for Vandenberg has slumped materially from the heights it reached two weeks ago.

They credit this to the feeling of some delegates that they no longer can wait for some affirmative sign that the Michigan senator is available. Added to this has been what some of Vandenberg's friends call a rumor campaign that (1) he will support some other candidate and (2) that his health isn't good enough for the strenuous job of the presidency.

While these maneuvers were going on, Dewey supporters busied themselves building up the contention that the New Yorker is all but in.

Vandenberg Reported In Talk with Taft

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 18 — Friends of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) has personally assured the Ohioan he is remaining aloof in the rivalry between Taft and Governor Thomas E. Dewey for the Republican presidential nomination.

Neither Vandenberg nor Taft would comment, but those who insisted they know said the exchange resulted from a New York Times report on Wednesday that Vandenberg had told friends he would work smoothly as a team with Dewey as president and John Foster Dulles, a Dewey adviser as secretary of state.

The Taft people quoted the Michigan senator as having told Taft that all talk about Taft's being a weak candidate was ridiculous. And further that any Republican nominated at Philadelphia next week will be a certain winner.

GOP TAKES UP CIVIL RIGHTS

Party Moves Toward Strong Declaration in Bid for Victories in South.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 18—The Republican party moved today toward a new and strong civil rights declaration—shrugging off any temptation to soften previous race issue stands in a bid for November victories in southern states.

A high-placed GOP policymaker, asking that his name not be used, told reporters the platform "will certainly not do less" than reaffirm the party's 1944 stand for FEPC and for anti-lynch and anti-poll tax legislation.

Simultaneously, reports were heard around convention quarters that two southern Negro delegates may be placed on the resolutions sub-committee drafting the party's civil rights plank.

The race issue, that has torn the Democratic party apart, exploded unexpectedly yesterday at the first meeting of the GOP platform committee as a delegate from Texas protested that no member from the deep south had been named to the subcommittee dealing with this question.

Orville Bullington of Wichita, Falls Tex. created the stir when he asked why. He promptly was named to this subcommittee.

Later he told reporters the Republican party would carry some southern states in November "if it doesn't slap the South in the face." He said he opposes FEPC as "unconstitutional" and that federal anti-lynch laws would do harm to the colored people."

GOP May Propose New Election Method

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 18—The Republican party in its 1948 platform may come out for a change in the method of electing U. S. presidents.

At least the idea has strong support in the person of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, chairman of the party's resolutions committee, which is drafting the platform.

At present, all the electoral college votes of each state must be cast for the candidate who wins a majority in that state even if it's a majority of only one vote.

Lodge wants to change this so that each state's electoral college votes would be split between the candidates in the same proportion as the popular vote was split.

TRUMAN IN CAPITAL; MORE VETOES HINTED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 18—President Truman came back to Washington today still hitting at the Republican controlled congress and promising "more vetoes" of its legislation.

The Chief Executive's special train arrived at Union station at 11:44 a. m. It was the end of a 15-day cross-country tour that made it clear he intends to make a major election issue of his differences with congress.

Most of his cabinet and a large part of Washington officialdom was on hand to greet him.

On his White House desk, awaiting his signature or veto were about 150 bills from what he has given "or at least its "second called the country's "worst con-gress."

CRESTLINE QUERIED ON 'WHISTLE STOP'

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 18—The Democratic national committee today asked officials of Crestline O., if they consider their town a whistle stop."

When Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio recently answered President Truman's charges that this is the worst congress America has ever had Sen. Taft accused Mr. Truman of making such statements at "every whistle stop in the west."

"Now the Democrats have sent telegrams to mayors and chambers of commerce in every point President Truman stopped, asking them whether they agree with Sen. Taft's "description of your town as a whistle stop."

The President made a brief rear - platform appearance at Crestline when his train stopped there to change crews on its way out to the coast.

LOS ANGELES, June 18—Los Angeles gave Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio its official answer today to his charge that President Truman was visiting a list of "whistle stops."

Mayor Fletcher Bowron, who welcomed Mr. Truman here Monday, wired Taft that Los Angeles has 1/35th of the nation's population—equal to half of Ohio's.

He sent the telegram collect.

SEARCH SCENE OF AIR CRASH FATAL TO 43

Experts Probe Into Cause of Tragic Wreck of DC-6 in Pennsylvania.

By The Associated Press

MT. CARMEL, Pa. June 18—Investigators probed the scattered wreckage of a United Airlines DC-6 today searching for the cause of the crash that took the lives of 43 persons, including that of theatrical producer Earl Carroll.

The big airliner, enroute from San Diego Calif., to New York plowed into a 60,000 volt power line and exploded into flames yesterday afternoon near this eastern Pennsylvania anthracite community.

The wreckage sprawled over an acre of woodland. The bodies 39 passengers, including two infants, and four crew members—were burned and torn, many beyond recognition. Their belongings were scattered everywhere.

Has Into Difficulties

'It is as bad a mess as I have ever seen' said Joseph O. Fluett chief of region one of the Civil Aeronautics board. Fluett arrived from New York a few hours after the disaster to head the CAB's investigators.

He was joined by experts from the United Airlines, Douglas Aircraft Co., manufacturers of the big plane and the Airline Pilots association.

They searched through the wreckage until midnight last night and returned to the task this morning.

"We expect to conduct a thorough and complete investigation but I can see we're going to run into difficulties because the disintegration is so complete," Fluett said.

Representatives of the airlines and state police spent most of last night going through the belongings of the passengers and crew. They found, among other things, a wallet containing Carroll's name and $1,084 cash. And they also found a new baby's purse with a penny inside.

Jack Herlihy vice president in charge of operations for United set up an emergency office in one of the collieries where 80 miners were shaken as Capt. George Warner Jr. pilot of Westmont, Ill. veered away from the anthracite breaker which extended 265 feet into the air.

Describes Scene as Inferno

The airliner flying not more than 30 feet off the ground was attempting an emergency landing after one of its motors caught fire. It barely missed the breaker, hit the power line and caromed 200 feet into a hillside. The carburetor from one of the engines was found on "Big Mountain" about 1,200 feet from the wreck.

Flames and smoke flew about 90 feet in the air" said Harry Stibitz an eyewitness. "The whole scene was like a living hell."

The crash put power lines in the area out of commission and forced shutdown of the Continental Germantown and Mid-Valley collieries. Emergency service was installed to furnish light for the official investigators and volunteers as they searched the wreckage.

Full electric service was restored shortly before midnight last night but 1,200 miners were still idle today because during the shut down on the power plant considerable water had flowed into the mines.

Carroll in Show Business Since Youth

By International News Service

PITTSBURGH, June 18—Veteran Pittsburgh showmen recalled today that Earl Carroll—who died in a plane crash near Mt. Carmel, Pa.—began his career as a $6-a-week usher in a Pittsburgh theater.

The 54-year-old producer who made his "Vanities" an American by-word, was born in north side Pittsburgh in 1893, son of a tavern-keeper. Even as a youngster of 10, Carroll staged shows in the basement of his home.

Later as a stagehand and program-seller he met and became friends with many theater greats such as Sarah Bernhardt, Richard Mansfield and Enrico Caruso for whom he wrote his first song.

Carroll left home at the age of 16 and traveled around the world, lingering in Shanghai, Hong Kong and Manila, and finally arriving in New York where he settled down to writing some 400 songs, including the music for such shows as "So Long Letty," "Florodora," "Canary Cottage," and "The Level Mill."

The first production of his own was "The Lady of the Lamp," in 1919. Other Carroll productions included "Daddy Dumplings," "Earl Carroll Vanities," "Sketch Book," "Hot-Cha," "Murder at the Vanities," "Show Girl," "Gay Paree," "Sweetheart Time," "Life Begins at 8:40," "Hollywood Party," "Earl Carroll Sketch Book," "Earl Carroll Vanities" (1940), "Diamond Lil," "Meet the Wife," "Hollywood Pinafore," "Strike Me Pink," "Earl Carroll Vanities" (1945), "Memphis Bound," "Sunny River," "Hollywood Ice Revue," "Earl Carroll Vanities" (1947), "Earl Carroll Vanities" (1948).

Truman Views Greek Situation

"Critical" Yet Being Relieved by American Aid, Report Tells Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 18 — President Truman told congress today the situation in Greece "remains critical." But American efforts to restore the country's economy and bolster the Greek army are beginning to show progress.

He added that the "quiet self-confidence and competence of the Turkish armed forces—also being trained and equipped by this country— are a stabilizing influence in that troubled area.

In a report on the 18-month-old Greek-Turkish aid program, Mr. Truman declared:

"Such factors as inflation, hoarded capital, the burden of supporting refugees and indigents, and general fears arising from unstable conditions continue to retard the economic recovery of Greece.

"The military situation still is of first importance. Armed bands continue to molest the populace and disrupt the nation's efforts at reconstruction.

"However recent successes of the Greek National army improved morale and formation of defense battalions, which will permit the Greek army increasingly to go on the offensive are expected to improve the situation materially.

"The continuance of United States military assistance has bolstered Greek morale and, it is hoped, will further discourage guerrilla resistance."

CURRENCY REFORM BEGUN IN GERMANY

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 18—The western allies announced tonight a drastic currency reform to reduce the money in circulation in their zones of occupation and to pave the way for German participation in the ERP. They set up a new mark, called the Deutsche mark, and provided for the first steps in taking old marks out of trade channels.

All old money and holdings must be registered next week. There will be a full week's moratorium on all debts in western Germany.

Germans in the western zones may trade 60 old marks for 60 new marks Sunday. This will leave the 45,000,000 residents entitled to hold only the equivalent of $12 each.

The announcement said the rate at which the mark can be converted into or from other moneys will be announced later. The allies also left until later an announcement of how much in savings Germans will be allowed to keep.

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, June 18—Thousands of frantic buyers swarmed almost empty stores today in an effort to trade in their old marks before currency reform takes effect in western Germany, probably Sunday.

MEASURE SENT TO SENATE AND LIKELY DEATH

Filibuster Threatened; Measure Would Bar Inductions Until Feb. 1.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 18—The house today passed a delayed-action draft bill which would not draft anyone before next Feb. 1.

The roll call vote on final passage was 283 to 130.

The amendment-loaded measure now goes to the senate. There it faces a possible filibuster that may kill it unless congress returns after the political conventions.

The senate passed a different bill last week. It provided for an immediate draft for two years of service.

The house bill calls for one year of service, with nobody to be inducted before next Feb. 1. Then they would be drafted only by order of the President. Induction ages in both bills are 19 through 25.

Taylor Threatens Filibuster

The threat of a senate filibuster—talking the bill to death—came from Senator Glen Taylor (D-Idaho), who is a running mate with Henry A. Wallace on a third party ticket.

Taylor's threat brought a quick promise from Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to bring congress back this summer to hammer out some sort of a draft law.

Before voting to pass the bill, the house beat down a motion by Rep. Philbin (D-Mass.) to send the measure back to its armed services committee. This move, which would have killed the bill, was defeated 256 to 120 on a roll call vote.

The measure goes to the senate for consideration in house amendments. If the senate refuses to agree, then the bill will go to a conference committee to compromise differences.

Confident of Saturday Windup

Senator Wherry (R-Neb), acting majority leader, expressed confidence the senate can "break any one-man filibuster on the draft" and go through with plans to adjourn Saturday night.

Wherry said House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) shares his view that congress can quit tomorrow night.

"I talked with Glen Taylor and he plans to talk at length," Wherry said. "But I don't know anyone else who will do that and if there's a filibuster we'll simply have to stay in session and break it."

Angry words on both sides of the Capitol — punctuated by a warning from Secretary of State Marshall that war might follow a retreat from this country's "present line" of security actions—set the stage for today's climactic roll call.

The house bill already was staggering under the weight of 35 amendments, including one to postpone until next year any decision on actual inductions.

Woman's Hospital Board Maps Race Ticket Sale

With most women's groups laying aside activities for a summer recess, members of the Woman's Board of the Marion City hospital are launching several weeks of intensive work—their annual sale of season tickets for the Little Grand Circuit Races which open here July 5 and continue through July 24. As in former years, the races are being sponsored by the board and proceeds realized on the sale of season tickets are used by the members to help finance their work at the Marion City Hospital.

Tickets for the races were distributed when the board met Wednesday for their annual picnic, election of officers and to complete plans for the ticket sale. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs Robert E. White of Harding Highway west.

The races this year are being staged by the Marion Matinee club, with the hospital board members in their annual role of sponsors. The sale of season race tickets is one of the major projects of the hospital board and funds realized from this, together with the proceeds of the annual holiday dance, are used to finance the purchase of valuable equipment and carry out other activities at the City hospital.

Mrs. Owens Chairman

Tickets for the season of 20 race programs will sell this year at $12.50 for the season. Mrs Robert C. Owens is chairman and Mrs. Robert LaMarche, co-chairman for the race meet. Persons wishing tickets may call any member of the board or contact Mrs. LaMarche at 7227 or Miss O'Brien at 7214.

Approximately $2,000 has been spent by the board this year for equipment at the City hospital, the annual report of Mrs Robert E. White, extension chairman, showed. This included surgical instruments for the operating room purchased at a cost of $1,000, one Stryker turning frame for use in the laboratory, an oxygen analyzer, an oxygen gauge and a dry heat sterilizer, the last named estimated to cost approximately $500.

Officers Elected

Following an annual custom officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs E. G. Siefert will head the board for the 1948-49 season and elected with her were Mrs. Robert C. Owens, first vice president, Mrs. Francis J Hurst, second vice president, Miss Geraldine Hord, recording secretary, Mrs. Clifford M. Howser, assistant recording secretary, Mrs Carl W Sawyer, corresponding secretary, Mrs F R Mann, assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. Philip Guthery, treasurer, Mrs C C Roberts, assistant treasurer, and Mrs Robert E. White auditor.

Announcement was made of the national conference of women's service committees in hospitals to be held during the fiftieth annual convention of the American Hospital Association to be held at Atlantic City Sept. 20 to 23, the object being to bring together large groups of women representing various kinds of groups giving service to hospitals. The conference, which will be attended by such organizations as auxiliaries, women's boards and other service groups associated with hospitals, is designed specifically to discuss matters of interest and consequence to them.

As in former years the members met for a picnic supper. Assisting the hostess as a committee were Miss Emma O'Brien, Mrs E. G Siefert, Mrs Harold V Alexander, Mrs Ray R King, Mrs Carl W Leffler, Mrs John P Courtright, Mrs Charles H Elliott, Mrs Carl W. Sawyer and Mrs. Francis J. Hurst.

BAN ON FIREWORKS SALE ORDERED HERE

Official Says State Law Will Be Enforced.

Strict county-wide enforcement of the anti-fireworks law was forecast for July 4 by Sheriff LeRoy Retterer today.

Commenting on a recent Associated Press report in which W. J Rogers, state industrial relations director, outlined the invasion of Ohio by out-of-state fire works bootleggers, Sheriff Retterer said, "We know that attempts are being made to ship illegal fireworks into Ohio for sale here. We also know the law specifically forbids such traffic. My deputies have their orders to arrest and bring for prosecution any and all such offenders found in this county."

Under Ohio law the retail sale of all fireworks except paper caps for cap pistols is banned. Fireworks made in Ohio may be shipped out of state, or fireworks may be used here for large celebrations where they are set off by professional display men who are licensed by the state and work under permits issued by the sheriff of the county and chief of the fire department of the area where the display is to be used.

The bootleg fire works business according to Associated Press reports, has been carried on through advertisements in outdoors magazines by firms who ship them into states where they are banned by law.

UN FIGHTING DRUG TRAFFIC

Real War is Being Waged with Troops, Planes, in Mexico and China.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS June 8—The United Nations is trying to wage war against drug smugglers and narcotics manufacturers.

In Mexico and China it has been a real war involving use of troops and even airplanes. In the United States, Canada, India and several far eastern countries it is the continued cold war of the customs and narcotics agents against the smugglers.

The Chinese government mobilized as many as 20,000 troops. Mexico put in the field some 700 soldiers, 10 planes, scores of federal and narcotics inspectors.

Reports of these activities recently were sent to a secret session of the United Nations organization's economic and social council. The council is the direct overseer of the commission on narcotic drugs. Fifteen nations are represented on the commission. The posts in the commission, the chief function of the United Nations of the League of Nations, is the field of narcotics control.

More than 40 nations have accepted agreements made under the League of Nations. Still newer pacts, to control use and production of synthetic drugs—not covered in previous accords—now are being signed.

China reported on results of a six year campaign to suppress the cultivation of the type of poppy which exports opium.

Farmers in the Chinese provinces of Hupeh, Kansu and Shensi were persuaded to cultivate other crops such as tung oil, rice and tea. Tung oil has great demand for export.

But what the government calls an "uncivilized tribe" in the mountain country between Shensi and Szechwan would not cooperate. These people, called the Yee-Mings, thought they had a good thing and refused to give it up.

The area is large and communications are bad except for the mysterious means used by the Yee-men to spot intruders. This year the government sent some 20,000 troops into the region and succeeded in destroying the plantations. However, the Yee-Mings simply pick up their tents and move elsewhere to begin again. The soil is perfectly suited to the poppy and the region is easy.

China Still Needs Aid

So although the campaign was successful, China still needs United Nations aid.

Mexico did not request aid—but it just wanted United States and Canada cooperation because dope smuggling with these countries were encouraging the trade. Raw opium in Indian ports is cheap, about 10 dollars a pound, but the value is about $600 when it shows up in U. S. or Canadian ports.

Mexican opium yields what is called brown heroin. The stuff, depending on the demand and the place, reaches fancy prices per ounce as much as five thousand dollars by the time it reaches Vancouver through New York and Toronto.

Board Lets Contract For Cleaning Ditch

The county commissioners yesterday let the contract for the cleaning out and repair of the Cusick single county ditch.

McKinley Brothers, sole excavating firm to enter a bid received the contract. Their offer was $3,837.55, a few hundred dollars below the estimate prepared by Walter W. Johnson, county engineer.

Commissioners also approved for construction a new bridge over Riffle Creek on the Mautz-Yeager road, township road 164. The two-span structure is to be a concrete slab top type. The county engineer recommended the job be done by contract. His estimate submitted to commissioners, was $8,650.

STATE TRAFFIC UNIT AIDS GALION STUDY

Special to The Star

GALION, June 18—At the request of Mayor H. H. Hartmann, two representatives of Harry Neal, chief of the traffic division of the State Highway department came into Galion Thursday for a conference regarding Galion's traffic problems. The mayor has a long range program in mind which will move traffic more smoothly through the city and which he plans to make streets wider and better.

The meeting Thursday held at the City building, is reported as an initial step in the solution of traffic congestion here. Harold Eckert and Ray Miller were representatives sent from the traffic division. They met with Mayor Hartmann, Service-Safety Director John F. Porter, Galion Automobile club secretary Grace Thomas, the engineer K. A. Pouster and F. K. Wilson, Galion insurance man.

Traffic congestion in Galion is one of the major problems. It is caused chiefly by railroads and the industrial section being in a concentrated area of the city. Two highways, National 30-South and State Route 61 add to the traffic congestion. The meeting Thursday afternoon was for the purpose of making a study of the congested areas, which will be followed by a survey and traffic by means of from the State Highway department.

It was brought out at the meeting that Galion will change the type of traffic lights now in use in order to conform with regulations.

Plan Pack Program At Committee Meeting

At a meeting of the civic affairs committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce held Wednesday noon at Hotel Harding the city recreational program was discussed.

Plans were completed for beautification and utilization of the city park facilities. Implementation of these plans will be the duty of a committe of which Kenneth Roberts is chairman with Ralph Schuck and John Prichard as his aides.

Roving Reports

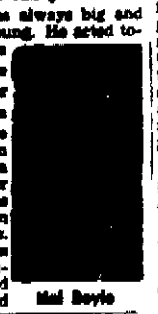
By Hal Boyle

WHAT to give my old man on Father's Day is no problem.

I can't give him anything. But like many men whose fathers have died, I'd like to tell him something.

Just what I don't know—unless it is how much he meant to me when I was growing up, and how often I have missed him since he's gone. Not to lean on any more just to talk things over with. Or maybe take to a ball game.

My father was always big and powerful and young. He acted toward his five children more like an older brother than a parent. Until we were fully grown he could knock a baseball farther than any of his sons and outrun and outshoot us.



Hal Boyle

He was the son of an Irish immigrant who had 17 children and spent his life in the coal business—digging it. Dad ran a trapline as a boy of 10 and earned his way ever after. He grew up to be like the animals he hunted in the wintry snow—simple, ungrudging, completely self reliant and tremendously loyal to his kin and kind.

Dad hated to exercise authority over his sons or to punish us for minor misdeeds. He thought boys had to get a few bumps in the process of learning to pit their strength against life and he didn't think it paid to interfere or protect them too much. He had a strong man's impatience of cowardice in any form, and I would rather have died than cry in his presence.

WHEN WE WERE YOUNG he had a little ritual he went through each evening when he came home. He would line us up, take us one at a time over his knee and give us a flat resounding but painless whack on the rear with the palm of his hand.

"Now what did you do wrong today?" he'd ask and laugh.

Later at dinner when mother recounted our major crimes against the household laws he'd soothe her.

"It's already taken care of. Margaret I've given 'em all a good spanking."

Dad was a frustrated farmer. Although we lived in the city we had in our back yard at different times—pigeons, rabbits, guinea pigs, pork chop pigs, a calf, two horses, chickens, guinea hens, ducks, geese and one to five dogs ranging from fox terriers to great danes.

DAD BELIEVED in God, the Democratic party and "bountiful crops." He rarely saw the inside of a church but every night until his death he kneeled by his bed and said the prayer he had learned in childhood. One prayer lasted him all his life.

Perhaps because his own schooling stopped at the third grade, Dad was suspicious of education. He thought it sometime gave people ideas too big for them. His suspicion of the higher learning also stemmed from the fact he once gave credit to a college graduate and the man didn't pay up. But he could never refuse credit to a man with a hungry family.

Dad ran a number of grocery stores. He made considerable money, gave away some, lost the rest, made some more, lost or gave away that and was back trying to make more when his last illness came. Neither misfortune or fortune ever soured him.

"All I want is the same chance Rockefeller had," he said. He figured if he didn't do as well — them he didn't deserve to.

HE HATED GOSSIP as a mortal sin. Once a customer complained about his own wife in the store in the presence of number of men and after that my father no longer would wait on him.

"Any man who talks about his wife in public is a fool," Dad said.

He was the youngest hearted man I ever knew. His only vanity was a desire to stay young. After he was 40 he went to the barber once a week and had his hair clipped short at the temples so the gray wouldn't show.

Dad worked 70 to 75 hours a week for 25 years but he was working for himself. He always said, he didn't want to live to be old. He died in 1937 at the age of 48.

We still keep his name listed in the Kansas City phone book. Death is something the living never quite accept. Thus when I call home long-distance to my mother I sometimes have the unreasoning feeling, even after the lapse of these years that I'll hear my father's familiar voice answering.

"Yes, son?"

He'll always live in more than a phone book.

HARDING COMMITTEE HONORS DOMBAUGHS

Informal Gathering Held at Home and Museum.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Dombaugh who for many years were in charge of the Harding Home and Museum on Mt. Vernon avenue were honored by the executive committee of the Harding Memorial association Wednesday evening at the home. It was an informal gathering with the group recalling pleasant associations of nearly 20 years.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer president of the association and members of the committee paid high tribute to both Mr. and Mrs. Dombaugh and expressed the gratitude of the interest and generous giving of not only their time but themselves to the home which has become a national shrine. Mr. Dombaugh expressed their pleasure at having been associated with the home and with the redecoration and rearrangement of the place. They were presented a gift from the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Dombaugh were in charge of the home for the last 19 years, retiring last October because of ill health. Close personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harding, visitors to the home were given many interesting sidelights in the lives of the former head and first lady of the nation from Mr. and Mrs. Dombaugh's association with them over a period of years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dombaugh have always lived in Marion and both are descendents from pioneer and well known families. Both were active in St. Paul's Episcopal church. Mr. Dombaugh having served for years in official capacities.

Mr. and Mrs. Dombaugh plan to make their future home at the Ohio Masonic Home in Springfield.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 18—Stocks of two companies involved in yesterday's plane tragedy declined in today's market.

United Airlines, operators of the DC-6 which crashed and killed 43 persons, dropped around a point. Douglas Aircraft, makers of the DC-4 plane, opened 1¼ lower but later recovered most of the loss.

Other air transportation stocks tended downward, including Eastern Airlines, Transcontinental & Western and American Airlines.

Railroad issues lost a little of the steam which carried many to new highs for the year or longer on Thursday. Fractional advances were posted for Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Baltimore & Ohio.

On the losing side were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Woolworth, Caterpillar Tractor, Schenley, American Can and Twentieth Century-Fox.

FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1948

Why the Veto Was Overridden

IN overriding the President's veto of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill, congress made into law a measure exempting carriers from anti-trust laws in rate cases. It was a bill that had negligible opposition. The railroads requested it. Associations of rail users supported them.

Interstate carriers operate under the transportation act of 1940. The interstate commerce commission is the regulatory body. Heretofore the ICC hadn't reviewed agreements between carriers until after they had been put into effect. The new law requires advance approval.

The movement of rail freight across the nation proceeds much as if the whole rail network were owned by one company. Transportation operates to a considerable extent under monopoly conditions which call for regulation. The ICC is providing the regulation.

The commission has full control over rates and can bring criminal prosecution where necessary. Sponsors of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill reasoned that carriers shouldn't be prosecuted for agreements approved by the regulatory body created to control them. One public agency instructed to prosecute what another agency has approved could only add another bureaucratic snarl to the already complex system of federal offices and agencies.

Everybody's Busy

THERE are 435 seats in the present house of representatives. A few of these are vacant because of death and illness. But when only 250 votes, or less, are recorded on such important issues as amendments to the draft bill it's apparent that many more seats are vacant because the congressmen sent to Washington to sit in them are too busy to be there.

Toward the end of congressional sessions attendance always falls off in congress, especially in the house of representatives. There have been times when the party whips were put to it to keep a quorum (one more than half the total membership) in Washington so votes on public issues would be official. Members of the house, as everybody knows, are overworked; they have many things to do besides attend the sessions.

But the matter is worth bringing up at this time because of the standing indictment against millions of potential voters who can't find time to go to the polls. Their failure to do so is blamed on indifference to what is going on. They are warned that failure to vote on important issues amounts to undermining representative democracy.

Is it possible that voters who are too busy to go to the polls are just as busy as members of congress who are too busy to go to the floor of the house of representatives to cast their votes on vital public issues?

End of The Basing Point

DISCUSSIONS of the basing point principle of freight charges have brought forth the observation that the postal system is the most common example of the basing point idea. It costs just as much to send a letter from New York to Pittsburgh as from New York to San Francisco. Parcel post rates are fixed on a zone basis regardless of the distance a package goes within the zone.

By the same token, business, notable industry, has used the basing point system in fixing prices. Steel made in Pittsburgh has cost the same in Fort Smith, Ark., as in Cincinnati. But in a case against a cement manufacturer, the supreme court has now held that the basing point system is illegal. This means that the farther a cement buyer is from the kilns, the higher the cost will be.

If business is to be transacted on a cost-plus-freight basis, the nation's industrial map is due for violent readjustment. Producers will have to decentralize or concentrate on business within their locality. California's tiny but thriving steel industry will be able to fill West Coast orders better than Pittsburgh's mills.

There probably will be price wars in areas where production exceeds local requirements. Producers in monopoly areas can raise prices as much as the traffic will bear. Producers in distant areas may merge in so far as they can do so without bringing anti-trust action.

These are likely to be some of the effects of ending the basing point system. For the long haul, however, federal trade commission believes it will result in a healthier industrial pattern and lower prices for consumer.

Fittings by Camera

CLOTHING stores soon will have a camera device to fit man photographically with suits. A development of the Bertillon idea, the camera takes simultaneous pictures from front, rear, side and overhead. Projected against a measurement scale, the pictures show the suit's exact measurements.

All men are measured for suits at one time or another, but not all men care much about having their pictures taken. With the new device they can kill two birds with one stone. On the same order blank the camera-shy man can requisition a two-pants suit and enough pictures for all the family albums to and including second cousins once removed.

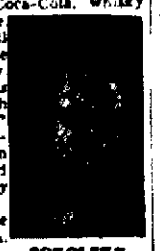
Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

ECA View of Coffee and Tobacco.

COFFEE is apparently good for the soul and tobacco helps the American farmer. That is the philosophy which guides the economic cooperation administration, formerly ERP.

I once raised the question as to why ECA expends good American dollars on coffee and tobacco, since neither can contribute to the rehabilitation of western Europe or China. Apparently coffee is a morale builder. So is tea. So are beer, Coca-Cola, whisky and, for some, betel nuts. It all depends on the point of view. But what has that to do with "rehabilitation"? How many machine tools can be manufactured with how many tons of coffee?



SOKOLSKY

This is the answer by D. A. Fitzgerald, director of foods of ECA:

"As you know, there are some food items that play an important part in the diet and yet contribute little to basic nourishment. Many beverages fall into this category. This is especially true of coffee, which is a great morale builder . . . A thing much needed for European recovery . . . As well as contributing a great deal to basic eating habits and customs. In addition, if recovery is to be permanent, it must be worldwide and all countries must return to a peacetime system of commerce and trade and must participate in this recovery. Therefore, it is obvious that the buying of coffee from South America has the effect of indirectly bringing our very valuable neighbors into the recovery program, since every dollar spent for coffee will improve multi-lateral trade."

How It Works

It is the last sentence that is the important one. While we are passing money out to Europe and China, the Brazilians would like to get some, as would the other coffee-raising countries of Central America. So, instead of slipping them a few millions, we put it down as aid to Norway or Sweden or somewhere, but give it to them in coffee. Thus, they get the coffee, the Brazilians get the cash and Uncle Sam pays. Now that builds railroads or docks or restores factories in Europe and China. Dr. Fitzgerald does not tell his correspondent, but obviously that, as well as morale building, is the plan. Why not send a couple of tons of lipsticks as morale builders?

On the subject of tobacco, the explanation is different. There are two reasons for sending tobacco to Europe and China. One is that in most of those countries the governments tax their people highly on tobacco and the governments need the revenue. So we give them the tobacco and they collect the taxes. Really that is what Dr. Fitzgerald writes:

". . . At the present time, the tobacco supplies in most countries in Europe are so inadequate that a widespread and serious black market in cigarets exists which prevents the governments from realizing their normal revenue as well as keeping their peoples from more productive activities . . ."

Where Politics Figure

The second reason is political in the United States, namely, that tobacco-raising farmers want their markets restored. As the Europeans and Chinese lack the dollars to buy American tobacco, ECA comes to their assistance and buys it for the Europeans and Chinese, loads them down with it and pays for it. Thus, everybody is happy, except the taxpayer who wonders where his money goes. This is what Dr. Fitzgerald has to say about tobacco:

". . . It must be considered, of course, that western Europe, prior to the war, bought considerable quantities of American tobacco, and, on the basis of this demand, many farmers in the tobacco-growing states have made considerable investments in the facilities for growing tobacco, which cannot be effectively diverted to other uses.

"The European market is very important to these farmers, and appropriate consideration needs to be given to this problem . . ."

I hear that China is to be loaded down with tobacco when, as a matter of fact, what China needs most are arms for fighting Communists and the reviving warlords who are tearing that country into shreds. What China needs is the rehabilitation of her currency. How tobacco will do that, I cannot imagine. Maybe, the Life-Time-Fortune experts, who are handling ECA's activities in China, can explain how tobacco will save Chiang Kai-shek from the Russians. Maybe the way Pocahontas saved John Smith!

At Governor's Conference

By Raymond Moley

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—In this tense political atmosphere at the national governors' conference, one concern seems to grip most Republican politicians. They want to get in line next week, in the balloting in Philadelphia, behind the probable winner. In the great game of politics, a man left on base when the game is won is a lost soul.

The governor of one great state, whose preference is still unknown, said, "We mustn't miss the boat this year." Another governor, who holds his delegation in a firm grip, said, "We are going to be ready to move fast when the balloting starts."

MOLEY

Tenseness is in the air now and it will deepen on Sunday and Monday in Philadelphia. In states with favorite sons, questions are being asked by delegates about how long they must go along with their first pledges. In Massachusetts, for example, it is not at all certain that the delegation can be held together even for a short ballot vote for Saltonstall. Former Governor Fuller of that state said here publicly that no consideration for Saltonstall or for Joe Martin, Massachusetts' almost-favorite son, should cause delegates to risk a long series of ballots and a possible smoke-filled room. Delegates, he said, are chosen to nominate a President, and they should proceed to that job as soon as the balloting starts.

There are some 40 governors here, most of them Republicans. The hotel where the conference is held is remote from crowds and other diversions. About all who are present, aside from governors and their immediate attendants, are a number of experienced reporters. It is a good place to size up sentiment.

It is, I believe, fair to state that most of the reporters feel there will be no deadlock next week, that the nomination may come sooner than has been anticipated and that Dewey had decidedly the best chance. Vandenberg is not overlooked, but his stock is declining. Taft is favored by some. In a poll of Republican governors, Dewey received as many votes as all other candidates combined.

Caucuses Set for Sunday

A lot more will be known Sunday in Philadelphia, when several big states, including Illinois and Pennsylvania, will caucus.

The southern Democratic governors are having a bit of a show, too. Leadership seems to be turning to the able Governor Beauford H. Jester of Texas. He plans to have a meeting of southern governors before the Democratic convention in July to consider the case of the South versus one Harry S. Truman. For the first time since the President started things with what opponents call his "social wrongs program," an orderly and positive revolt is under way. Jester says that Texas will be regular up to the "November disaster." After that, it will help rebuild the house along lines we may be sure, which will not conform to the architectural theories of the New Deal.

Just a Minute

It Must Have Been

An Arresting Scene

The sheriff and chief of police had a fist fight recently in Jonesboro, Georgia.

That was a case of too much law and not enough order.

Both were clothed with authority, but somebody held their coats.

It must have been something to see, the two strong arms of the law come to grips.

Incidentally, so far as I can determine, this is one of the very few cases in history in which, legally speaking, right was on both sides.

And it raises a pretty question, to wit: Who's going to maintain order when it's the cops who are disturbing the peace?

Yes sir, thieves aren't the only ones who make news when they fall out.

Something New in Oil

ALONG the Gulf of Mexico—where industrial and military-training centers buzzed with wartime activities—the recent oil strike in deep water off Louisiana adds something new to the old story of well drilling.

In 1901, the discovery of the Spindletop field, in oil-rich Texas near the Louisiana border, launched the biggest and most farreaching boom of the then relatively young industry, notes National Geographic Society.

About the same time, oil also was struck in near-by southwest Louisiana, first of the many major fields which have made this state one of the nation's leading oil sources.

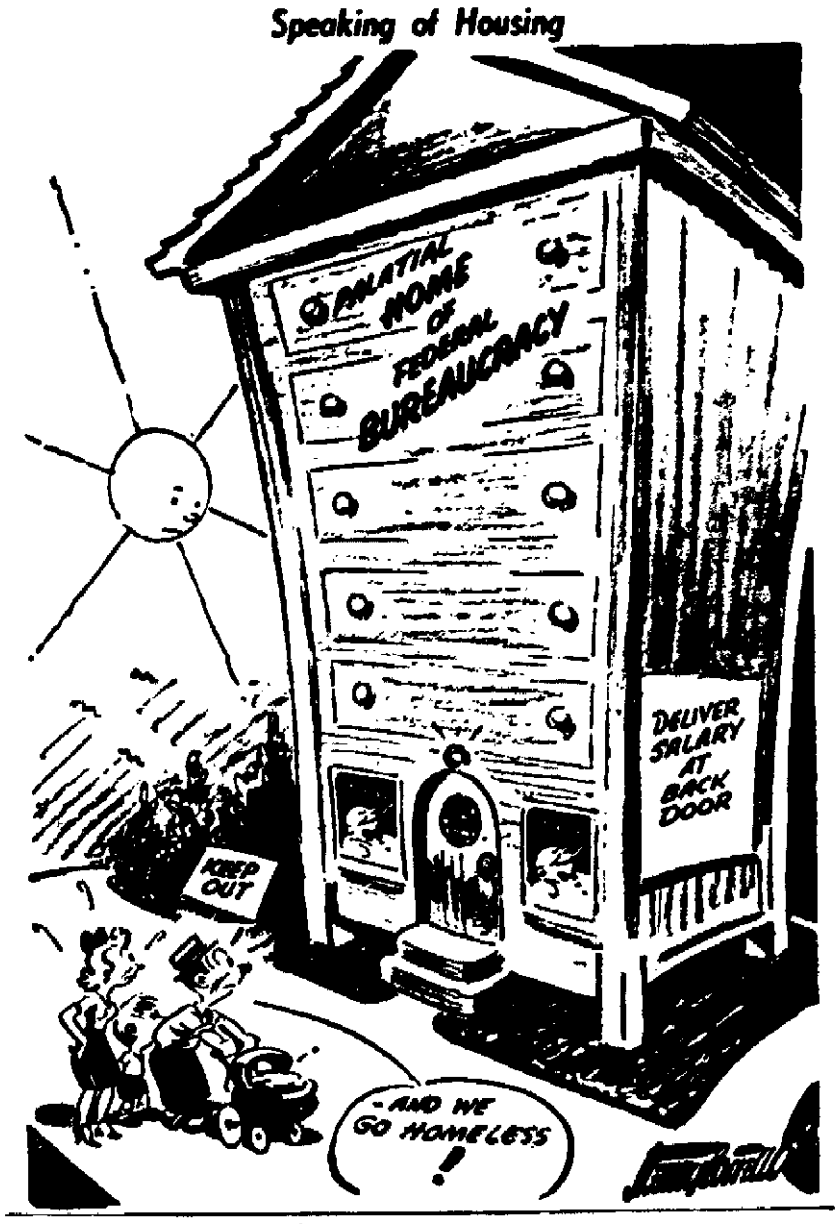
Much of Louisiana's oil has come from the marsh-and-lake region around the gulf. In recent years, however, prospectors have been looking beyond the mainland.

The under-water continental shelf around the United States is believed to hold extensive deposits of petroleum. California tidelands long have been tapped by slanting wells from the beaches, as well as by offshore rigs. Various drilling operations have been undertaken off the Louisiana, Florida and Texas coasts. Some of the prospecting gulf wells have been sunk more than 20 miles from land.

The recent Louisiana strike is notable because of the engineering problems involved in setting up drilling rig in 50 feet of water, against the threat of potential hurricanes. A base platform built for the job is big enough to accommodate operating machinery, supplies and living quarters for dozens of workers. Ten miles from shore, off Grand Isle, it is rooted deep in the gulf floor by steel piles, and especially constructed to withstand high winds.

A "marsh buggy" has been evolved with giant, balloon-like tires to navigate soggy marsh and open lake.

Speaking of Housing



High Building Costs Block Housing Projects

Insurance Companies Hold Up Plans for New Investments.

HIGH building costs are causing insurance companies to abandon—at least temporarily—plans for large-scale rental-housing projects.

At the beginning of 1948, about 100,000 persons were living in life insurance rental-housing projects, and buildings under construction were planned to accommodate 100,000 more. Life insurance assets invested in housing exceed $400,000,000. Two-thirds of this investment represents postwar building.

Life insurance rental-housing projects have been the largest factor in relieving the postwar home shortage, says the magazine Business Week. But it adds that building costs have now advanced to the point where very high rentals must be charged to assure the required rate of return.

It cites one $10,000,000 development which Equitable Life has completed one-third at a time. One section was completed in 1942, one in 1946 and one in 1947. On the first third the monthly rental is around $15 a room; on the second $18, and on the last section to be completed $24.

While there is a waiting list of tenants even for the $24-a-room apartments now, the company has no assurance tenants will continue to pay that rate when apartments are plentiful. The result could be a drop in Equitable's investment return.

Companies Hold Off

Recently, the article points out, Pennsylvania passed a law permitting the state's insurance firms to invest up to 10 per cent of their assets in housing. Not one has taken real advantage of the law. John A. Stevenson, president of Penn Mutual, says the company will invest in housing eventually, but not until "prices are down 20 to 33 per cent."

"No one today is more aware of the social need for new housing than life companies," Mr. Stevenson said. "They know, too, that as the country's largest accumulators of savings they have an obligation to the national economy as well as to their vast army of policyholders; and the sharp drop in the rate of return on investments in recent years has warned the industry that it badly needs to broaden the sources of its income.

"Housing projects, however, are only one phase of its activity in the phase of real estate. Since V-J Day, for instance, it has loaned more money on home building mortgages than all federal, state and municipal bureaus combined. Through GI mortgages alone, homes for at least 500,000 persons have been financed by insurance companies. As a result, the insurers' mortgage holdings recently total more than 8.1 billions, a new high; and the companies still have substantial additional funds for such investments.

"Thus the life insurance industry is convinced its contributions to housing have gone far enough.

"Housing projects must offer reasonable assurance of at least 3½ to 4¼ per cent yearly—over and above 2 per cent amortization of principal. A year or two ago, this assurance was present. But it has been evaporating rapidly. Because of today's high costs, much higher rental than those usually charged must be assessed to assure the required rate of return; and the life trade doubts it will be able to maintain such inflated rental levels over the long terms."

Started in 1922

The history of insurance companies in housing activity is covered in a study made by the Institute of Life Insurance for the forthcoming first Encyclopedia of Housing. That history began in 1922 when Metropolitan Life constructed 54 five-story walkup apartment houses in three projects in the Borough of Queens, New York.

General building so increased in the next few years that additional large-scale projects were not undertaken until 1930 when Prudential Life constructed a series of apartment houses in Newark, N. J., with a maximum rental rate of $14.95 per room.

Parkchester, in the Bronx, N. Y., the greatest development, was started in 1938. It consists of 51 buildings containing 12,273 apartments, and was an undertaking of such scope that it took up the slack in New York building trades for three years. Parkchester is a model development and has enjoyed 100 per cent occupancy since its opening. No projects now under construction or contemplated exceed it in size.

New Jersey leads in the number of such housing developments with 14. Totals for other states are New York 3, Virginia 1, California 2, Ohio 2, and Maryland 1. Four are under construction in New York and one each in Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

"Number Three"

("Babe Ruth's Old Uniform, Number Three, Has Been Placed In The Baseball Hall Of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y."—News Item)

It hangs at Cooperstown—Old Three—
A faded shirt of baseball fame,
The top-piece of a uniform
That gave a lustre to the game;
The figure there upon its rack,
That "3" . . . what memories it brings
Of stalwart deeds upon the field
Where reigned the deadliest of swings!

II

A baseball shirt . . . that's all, you say?
Why, Mister Skeptic where were you
When there was one great baseball guy,
The king of all the swatting crew?
A numeral you say no more?
A figure . . . or by stamp or sneers? . . .
You must have come along my friend,
Since that "3" brought the epic cheers!

III

This "3" is token of an age
A symbol of prodigious deeds
When one man strode the baseball scene,
His name in headlines and in leads,
A number this to stir the heart;
It is a flaming flashing thing
To mark a legend and a tale
To which the fans shall always cling.

IV

This "3" could make a pulse beat high,
This "3" brought thousands to their feet,
This shirt was like a magic robe
That made a man both strong and fleet.
This uniform could quicken hearts,
Its very presence cast a spell
And when the fans looked down on it
In crucial games their hopes would swell.

V

Behold it now put under glass
Far from the tumult and the shouts,
Far from the hectic baseball fields,
Far from the sound of epic clout . . .
But I've a notion that by night,
When no one's in this place at all,
It stalks out, by some spirit filled,
And listens for the cry: "Play ball!"

Income for Cities

By TRUMAN TWILL

Cities are showing lively interest in collecting taxes from outsiders who work in them. They say they must raise more money to make ends meet, therefore it's all right to charge non-residents for a share of civic upkeep.

The idea is full of possibilities.

Water faucets could be rigged up with coin slots, to take in income from outsiders. All natives, of course, would be provided with slugs in recognition of their vested interest.

Toll gates could be erected on all highways leading in from the country. Travelers would be asked to show passport papers. If they turned out to be aliens, they'd have to pay a toll, unless their political subdivision had worked out a reciprocal travel agreement with the toll-collecting municipality.

Motorists could be required to make a deposit for breakage before entering a strange city. This would help defray the upkeep of streets, traffic signs and other equipment. Upon leaving the city, half the deposit would be returned in the event the visiting motorist had no charges standing against him.

Public buildings could be furnished with guards at all entrances, to collect fees from out-of-towners trespassing on facilities they hadn't helped to pay for.

Scenic vistas could be screened from highway. Anyone wishing to enjoy the landscaping triumphs of the natives could look through a peephole—25 cents a look, no rebate. There would be free parking for customers only.

A restaurant tax could be levied on all meals consumed by foreigners, after the fashion of the extra clipping given to Americans when traveling abroad.

Public restrooms could exact a toll from aliens to help cover the high cost of maintaining local sanitary facilities.

Shoppers unable to produce papers to prove local residency could be soaked an extra penny on all sales tax transactions.

Trucks and buses could be made to bear a larger share of the burden by installing weighing machines and levying poundage charges on their contents.

Special rates could be charged to out-of-towners riding buses. Public drinking fountains could be restricted to natives. Sidewalk permits could be issued.

There could be special prices for all kinds of entertainment, unless the customer belonged to the local nobility, special rates for using telephone, special fees for all kinds of public services.

All these things have been tried at one time or another, and some are still in effect. And cities still haven't discovered how to make ends meet, because they're expected to do everything under the sun for the people who use them at the expense, principally, of the people who live in them. It's a problem that won't be solved until everybody agrees that cities are worth what it costs to maintain them and are provided with the income they need, instead of being forced to scramble for the pennies they can get.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"DON'T you remember, Mummy?" Faith continued, a bit uneasily, "that Granddad said I mustn't say 'hush-hush' unless there was just some of our 'family group' in the apartment, or the house, or wherever we were? And he said you'd explain who were 'family group' and who weren't. But, surely you and I are 'family group' aren't we?"

"We surely are, my darling," I said smiling down at her flushed face and her starry questioning eyes. "And it's perfectly all right for you to ask the question.

"Now as to the answer." I went on. "I imagine it must be 'hush-hush,' or Mr. 'K' wouldn't have given it to Daddy to give to Grand-dad all by himself. But I haven't any idea of what it's about and I'm not going to bother my head about it. I wouldn't think about it, if I were you."

"But I can't help thinking about it," she said screwing her face up into a caricature of Rodin's masterpiece. "It's a big deep mystery to me. In the first place, you know all about Granddad's 'hush-hush' stuff just as much as Daddy does. Why would Mr. 'K' leave you out of the thing, just like that?"

She snapped her fingers with an expressive gesture, and went on from there.

"Do you want to know what I think?" she asked abruptly, and answered her own question forth with. "I think Daddy's a deep one."

"Whatever do you mean?" I asked startled.

"Why, I don't believe he had any 'hush-hush' message from Mr. 'K.' at all," she said. "I think he just wanted to see Granddad on his own hook about something, and he didn't want us to know anything about it, so he said that about a message from Mr. 'K.' He knew that would get Granddad out of the room like lightning."

I gazed at my child with something resembling awe. The same fantastic thought, with an even more far-fetched interpretation had been creeping out of the back of my mind, but I had not dreamed that she would share it.

"'Out of the mouths of babes,'" I murmured to myself, but was careful not to let Faith hear me. She was too absorbed in her own deductions, however, to pay much attention to me, something for which I was grateful.

"I'll bet you two cents that's it," she said, and the sound of the opening and closing door of Dicky's bedroom spurred me to action.

"Faith!" I said in a low, militant tone, "I will talk to you about this again, but while Daddy and Granddaddy are here, promise me you won't mention your idea about this, or, indeed, any word about the message. Hurry! They're coming."

"I promise," she whispered, and then my father and Dicky were back in the room, and my husband and I relegated ourselves to the sidelines, giving my small daughter and her grandfather plenty of room for their romp.

I started to protest their vehemence once for I feared what such violent play would do to my father's heart but Dicky put a restraining hand upon my arm.

"I don't believe it's doing him a bit of harm," he murmured prison-fashion in my ear. "But even, if it did hurt him, don't you know he'd trade ten minutes of this for a cut in his life span, if he had to?"

"Yes, but I wouldn't," I murmured back rebelliously.

"But there isn't a thing you can do about it, and you know it," my husband said. "So relax."

But his arm went around me and his hand clasped mine, and I knew, with the infinite comfort which long married companionship brings that he shared my fears.

STEAM GIVES HOPE TO ITALY

May Become Independent of Coal with Harnessing of Volcanoes' Strength.

By The United Press

ROME — The mighty strength of volcanoes in Italy's "Valley of Hell" soon may be harnessed and controlled in an attempt to render Italy independent of imported coal.

Carried out originally as a dream cherished by the late dictator Benito Mussolini, the experiment now is being followed with success in the valley at Larderello in Tuscany. The live steam from nearly 300 natural and man-made wells is fast becoming Italy's greatest source of electric power.

Although the existence of the powerful geysers which cover a 20-mile area has been known for more than 100 years it is only recently that Italian engineers have turned over 300 of the once uncontrolled wells into more than 2,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy daily. From that source electricity is furnished to operate the new electrified railroad between Pisa and Rome.

Turbine Plants Built

Eight huge turbine plants are turning out 32,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity every month.

More than 2,000 men are employed in the project, living in the strange and dangerous land where steam roars skyward.

New steam wells are being drilled. It takes nearly eight months to drill some of the wells, which go down 1,000 feet. Just before the workers strike steam, the crew dashes for safety. The escaping steam wrecks all drilling machinery not carried to safety in time. Rocks and volcanic lava gush out 1,000 feet with an explosion which can be heard 12 miles away.

Wells Controlled

Then for two weeks the well is allowed to clean itself out after which it is capped and controlled, the steam being channeled into condensing tanks and converted into electrical energy.

Besides the great importance of the wells for electrical purposes, they also have a substantial output of boric acid and other by-products of boracic nature.

The young Italian republic is resorting to the exploitation of its numerous sources of hydro-electric power to free itself of coal importations. New projects are under way to exploit this so called "white coal," plentiful throughout the peninsula.

Hardin Real Estate To Be Reappraised

Special to The Star

KENTON, June 18—Three appraisal companies have been asked to submit bids on reappraisal of Hardin county real estate for 1948, the county auditor, W. R. Wilson, has announced.

Reappraisal of real estate is required by law every six years, he explained, and the last appraisal of Hardin county lands was in 1943. The new appraisal probably will have to be completed soon so that it can be placed on the 1948 tax duplicate, Mr. Wilson believes.

Canton Lady Loses 36 Lbs. Says Rennel Is Fine

Mrs M Elder, 1419 5th St NE Canton Ohio writes us, "I am 38 years of age and when I started taking Rennel Concentrate I weighed 174 lbs. Now I weigh 138 and my dress size has changed from 20½ to 16. I like Rennel for reducing for it does not upset my stomach as other preparations have"

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle Then take just two tablespoonfuls a day That's all there is to it If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin arms, bust abdomen, hips calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry Don't be switched to another product. Insist on and obtain genuine Rennel.

GROWTH OF FOREMEN CLUB IS EXPLAINED

Douthitt Speaks on National Group Before Kiwanis.

A historical background of the National Association of Foremen, the management men of America, and how it has become an increasingly important force in American industry as it has grown and matured during the past quarter of a century, was given by Harold H. Douthitt, president of the Foreman's club of Marion at the Kiwanis club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding.

The need for increased understanding, greater unity and more effective cooperation at all levels of industry's structure, Mr. Douthitt said, has for a long time acted as a force to band forward looking management men into organized and disorganized groups and associations.

Started in Dayton

The forming of the first Foremen's club in Dayton came about as a result of a series of conferences held by a group of young management men for the purpose of discussing important aspects of industrial management beyond the scope of their earlier training and experience. Following the organizing of the first club in Dayton, a number of other cities in Ohio formed clubs and later the Ohio Federation of Foremen's clubs was suggested.

The movement continued to expand and at a second Ohio Federation convention in 1925, plans were made to form a National Association of Foremen. The first annual convention of the National Association was held in Springfield, O., in May, 1926

Purposes of the Association are included in a five-point program:

(1) To develop and improve foremen and other management men;

(2) To raise the standards and to promote the appreciation of foremanship as a profession;

(3) To create unity and cooperation among all members of management;

(4) To study the needs and opportunities of industry;

(5) To gather, compile, and distribute foremanship information which will be of direct value in the promotion of better industrial relations.

Now 271 Clubs

The association has grown to 271 individual clubs in all parts of the United States with an active membership of 36,000 men. The Marion Foremen's club was officially organized Sept. 10, 1945 with a membership of 99 local management men, and during this period of less than three years has grown to a membership of approximately 350 members

Mr. Douthitt was introduced by Howard Ropka, program chairman.

An announcement was made of the family picnic for all Kiwanians, their wives and children, to be held Thursday at 6 p. m. at McKinley park.

Guests were H E Webster and Juvenile and Probate Judge Edward J. Ruzzo

Three Youths Enlist For Navy Service

Chief Engineman Carl T. Prusnek, Marion Naval recruiter today announced the enlistment of three Marion district men.

Williams of near Marion, also a Meeker High graduate; and James Edgar Starner, 17, a graduate of Morral High school and son of Mr. and Mrs R. Starner of near Morral As high school graduates the three youths had the choice of service schools they will attend. Brown chose submarine school, Williams chose storekeeper's school, and Starner chose diesel engine school. All three men enlisted for a three year period, Chief Prusnek said

Your Good Health

Inviting Sleep With Sedatives

THE heavy consumption, during recent years, of sleep-producing drugs indicates that more and more people, finding the pursuit of sleep difficult, are seeking in these preparations quick passage to the land of dreams.

This should not be so because sleep is a natural thing which should come of itself The fact that so many people must woo it by artificial means is probably due to the many worries and strains which accompany modern life. Of course, sleeplessness may be due to other causes A room which is too hot or too cold improper covering, an uncomfortable bed, lack of fresh air, bothersome noises or too much light all can interfere with sleep But by far the most frequent cause is the bad habit of inviting all one's worries to share one's bed

The use of sleeping pills alone is not a cure for insomnia or sleeplessness, but as a temporary help such preparations are useful when employed under the direction of a physician

It has been suggested that such medicines will function better if they are enteric coated, that is, if the drug has a coating which will not dissolve in the stomach but in the intestine With such a preparation, the total dose necessary to produce sleep may be much less than with the non-coated variety Furthermore, the so-called hangover which comes from the use of such drugs is reduced or eliminated. Such smaller amounts are required, there is less likelihood of their becoming habit-forming

Before these sedative drugs can be given, it must be determined what type of sleeplessness is present. For example, some persons have difficulty in falling asleep at first but, after they fall asleep, they sleep soundly. Others fall asleep easily but get restless and awaken after several hours, and there are still others who sleep fitfully and do not get enough sleep

Those in the first group, it is suggested may benefit from such a preparation as phenobarbital, which is enteric-coated and is given about three or four hours before bedtime Those in the third group should take another tablet on going to bed. Those in the second group will need only the one tablet on retiring

A group of patients with insomnia treated in this way, were found to require about half as much of the sleep-producing drugs, when given in the enteric-coated form and in the manner outlined, as when other preparations were used

Of course, anyone with persistent sleeplessness should make a careful study made by his physician to determine the cause so that the most effective treatment may be employed.

URANIUM ORE MINING BOOMS

Prospectors Comb Mountains for Mineral Gold Diggers Threw Away.

By The Associated Press

DOVE CREEK, Colo June 17—Prospectors are combing the mountains of southwestern Colorado again. Its uranium ore is looking for now not gold.

The prospecting boom for the raw material of the atom bomb includes a visit to mountain town whose name is synonymous of peace.

In the 80s it was the gold crazed sourdough who plodded over the hills and canyons with his pick pan and provisions on a burro.

Prospecting As In Past

The jeep and truck have replaced the burro, and modern scientific instruments the pick and pan. Otherwise the present day prospector operates much like his predecessor. It is difficult to get any definite information as to the actual results. The atomic energy commission closely routined about its activities. However it is well known here that uranium prospecting and mining in the Slick Rock region about 20 miles north of here is reaching boom proportions.

The uranium is contained almost exclusively in the mineral carnotite and in the form of uranium oxide.

Owns 200 Mining Claims

Carnotite looks like lumps of yellow clay. It is found in what geologists call the Morrison formation which outcrops on the surface.

F. A. Sutton, mayor of Dove Creek owns 200 uranium mining claims. During the war he shipped as much as 100 tons of ore daily.

The current boom, he says may put the old days to shame.

In employment alone this may be the greatest thing that ever happened here," he says. "We figure one man will be needed to mine each ton of ore."

The AEC's announcement that it would pay 50 cents per pound for uranium oxide contained in ores assaying two per cent or more gave impetus to the boom. The AEC is paying six cents per ton-mile haulage allowance up to 100 miles from the purchasing depot.

One old prospector a veteran of the gold days summed up the situation this way.

By gosh I never thought I'd live to see that stuff make a boom. Why doggone it, I used to throw that away when we were hunting gold."

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

DON'T let the convention upset you please and the big noise kid you.

You'll hear a lot of it—the wild demonstrations for whoozis—when the Republicans meet in Philadelphia next week to nominate a man for president.

There'll be 1,094 Republican delegates there and thousands of others who go to rubberneck or cheer.

The candidates for the nomination will stay pretty much out of sight back in their hotel rooms hoping for the lightning to strike them.

James Marlow

They'll be doing more than hoping of course. Their managers will be out trying to rope in enough state delegations to get their man nominated.

But just let the name of one of the hopefuls be mentioned in the convention hall.

The delegates pledged to him will try to rip the roof off with their cheers, whistles, applause and maybe a parade around the hall.

None of this means much.

What counts is the work done by the political managers among the state delegations trying to win them over quietly.

THIS WRITER SAW an example of how little the noise and cheers mean at the Republican convention at Chicago in 1944.

That year the only real contenders were New York's Governor Dewey and Ohio's Governor Bricker—now a senator.

Both men had rented huge ballrooms on the same floor of the Stevens hotel only a few hundred yards apart.

Bricker's was ablaze with light, aflame with flowers. Gigantic pictures of the candidate were hung on the wall.

The pictures showing Bricker in various stages from boy to governor were there to win friends and influence people.

BRICKER HIMSELF, white haired and smiling did his best in person to do what his pictures were trying to do. He stood at the ballroom door shaking hands with the thousands of delegates and sightseers who poured up to Dewey's real headquarters on an upper floor and found one of his most trusted right hand men there, alone, in his shirt sleeves.

I went to mention it. I said you'd better wake up Bricker is downstairs shaking hands with everybody in Chicago.

The Dewey man laughed. I said Bricker is talking to a lot of people.

"Let him," the Dewey man said. "We're already done out to-night with the people who are going to give us the votes."

And he was right although Bricker wasn't convinced for a couple of days and nights. I went back

ADVICE ON SLEEP OFFERED BY EXPERT

By The United Press

OMAHA, Neb. — Worry over trivial problems causes more sleeplessness than concern over the possibility of another war according to Dr. Herman J. Jahr of the University of Nebraska's medical college.

Jahr divided into two classes the persons who long in vain for peaceful slumber—healthy people with "false ideas," and those who suffer organic ailments which tend to prevent sleep. But the healthy non-sleeper accounts for most cases of insomnia, he said.

"He is usually a tense, worrisome, stubborn individual," Jahr said. "His greatest worry is 'why can't I go to sleep?'"

Jahr makes fun of the alleged "sleep-inspiring qualities of beds, mattresses, springs, and other equipment." With the proper attitude, he said, anyone can lie down on a too-short sofa, the floor, or anywhere else and sleep like a baby.

Habits Vary

"You need only a belief in being able to sleep, tired, relaxed muscles, a healthy body and a calm atmosphere," Jahr said.

According to Jahr's research college students require eight to 23 minutes to go to sleep. Middle-aged men take about 25 minutes and middle-aged women 10 to 15 minutes.

"This may suggest the ladies haven't as many problems as they think they have," he said.

College students turn an average of 76 times a night, middle-aged men 53 times, and middle-aged women 26 times. Tossing does not mean lost sleep, Jahr said.

"If you slept like a log you're likely to be stiff as a board in the morning," he said.

Don't Count Sheep

Jahr advises against counting sheep to woo slumber. "You'll get more interested in an accurate count than in relaxing."

Fresh-air fiends and closed-window fans may follow their natural bent, "but don't overdo and bake or freeze yourself," he said.

He urged common sense in the matter of bed-time snacks. "If a sandwich or coffee keeps you awake by all means avoid them."

Jahr believes much adult insomnia is the result of bedtime being used as a threat of punishment during childhood.

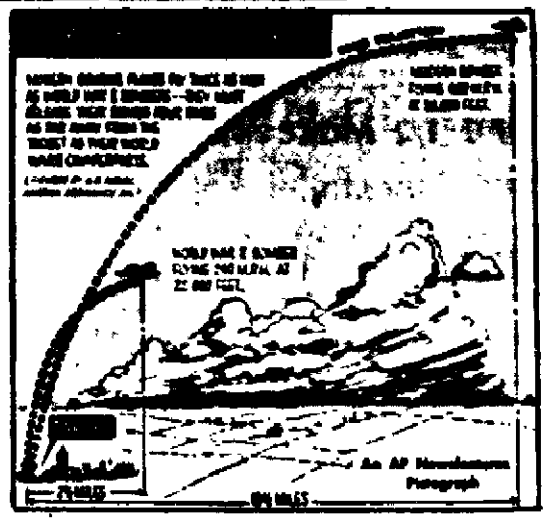
"Forcing bedtime on a child creates an antagonism which may make him a worrier with insomnia in later years," the doctor said.

WALDO WINNERS MEET

Plans were laid for the remainder of the summer schedule at a meeting of the Waldo Winners 4-H club at a meeting last week at the school. Meeting night has been changed from Tuesday to Thursday. Committees reported, and it was decided that the flood committee would meet tonight at the home of Fred Thieken. The next regular meeting will be held June 24 at the Waldo school.

UPPER'S LIONS INSTALL

UPPER SANDUSKY—New officers for the coming year were installed at a recent meeting of the Upper Sandusky Lions club by the district governor, Edwin C. Baum, with president P. W. Cline, heading the group. Kenneth Kinley is secretary and Earl Shaffer, treasurer.



Bible School To Close At Forest Lawn Church

A program of songs, exercises and memory work will be given by the pupils of the Forest Lawn Daily Vacation Bible school tonight at 7 o'clock to close the activities of the Bible school. The program will be presented at the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church and all parents of pupils in the school are invited to attend. The Forest Lawn church and the First Church of the Brethren combined to sponsor the Bible school which has been in session for the last two weeks.

Shrine Game Crowd of 4,000 Sees Newark Humble Marion Cubs, 8 to 3

Ed Heck's Grand Slam Homer Chases in Winning Yank Run

Special to The Star

NEWARK, June 18—Marion needed a victory here tonight to get back in the running for the fifth place in the Ohio-Indiana league.

Newark strengthened its fifth place spot over Marion here Thursday night by defeating the Cubs 8 to 3 before an overflow Shrine game crowd of 4,000 fans.

Two home runs, one with the bases filled, spelled Nick Alivojvodic's pitching performance.

With two out, the bases packed and Newark trailing 3 to 0 in the fifth, Ed Heck, Yankee first baseman, smacked out a long drive to deep center field and ran it out for an inside-the-park homer.

With two out in the sixth, Bob Ogle lifted a four-ply sock over the centerfield fence with Johnny Kopsic on base. It was one of the longest home runs ever hit in Arnold park.

The Yankees chased Alivojvodic in the seventh, Frank Marchelli taking over. Newark scored two runs in this frame, both coming across when Manager Zeke Bonura fumbled Murphy's grounder.

Newark's four runs in the fifth were also unearned, Bohlender dropping a fly ball which would have made three outs before Heck had a chance to bat.

Schmitt gave Marion its first score by hammering a home run over the left field fence to lead off the third frame.

A double by Bohnsen, a single by King and a double error by Ogle accounted for two Marion runs in the fifth.

Dick Murphy went all the way for Newark.

REDS OPEN SERIES WITH BOSTON BRAVES

Cincinnati Defeats Brooklyn, 5-3, Ending Losing Streak.

BOSTON, June 18—Two night games awaited the Cincinnati Reds as they arrived for a three-game series with the Braves. They meet under the lights tonight and Saturday and play a day game Sunday.

Fresh from a victory over Brooklyn Dodgers, which broke a four-game losing streak, the Reds were prepared to take up a battle that ended with a split series when the Braves were last in the Queen City.

Despite a three-run burst by the Dodgers in the opening inning at Brooklyn yesterday, the Reds came back to take a 5-3 victory as Howie Fox settled down to pitch eight innings of shutout ball.

The tall righthander set the Bums down with 10 pitches in the third inning. The first pitch was a ball, followed by nine strikes.

It was the only Reds victory in a three-game series and their second in nine meetings.

Brooklyn's Joe Hatten blew in the fourth. The Reds scored two runs before Hatten left and Claude Corbitt greeted relief Man Erv Palica with a two-run double.

The Reds brought a rather formidable record of feats with them. They lead in hitting, they are first in the number of double plays, and are second in runs scored and home runs.

However, they also are first in the number of runs scored against them.

Hambletonian Preview Feature Race Tonight

CHICAGO, June 18 — The $10,000 preview trot, a trial event for the $62,000 Hambletonian Stakes at Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 11, will be the feature of tonight's Grand Circuit harness program at suburban Maywood Park.

The preview has attracted a field of eight speedy three-year-old trotters, including Pronto Don, king of last year's two-year-olds who won all but two of his 16 starts last year.

The preview calls for two distances—at a mile, and a mile and a sixteenth.

LOU BOUDREAU put the Indians pennant chances square on Rapid Robert Feller's shoulders yesterday, saying that unless the fireballer returns to his old form, Cleveland was finished as far as the American league flag was concerned . . . "We'll sink or swim with Feller," said Lou" "He'll start against Philadelphia Sunday and he'll start every fourth day thereafter. He's our ace and we're going all the way with him." . . . The Boston Red Sox handed Feller his seventh defeat Wednesday. He has won five games, but none since May 19. The Bosox said after the game that Robert had sent them his usual stuff, but there must have been something amusing—he couldn't get them out.

A VARIETY OF reasons have been advanced to explain Feller's slump, among them the illness of his wife, the irregularity of his pitching assignments (caused by the weather), and a $42,500 law suit brought against him by promoter Ray Doan, who charged Feller broke an agreement with him to manage his activities during the 1948 off-season. His wife, though not completely recovered, has at least joined him in Cleveland; spring has passed and the weather is right for baseball, and the suit has been dismissed in federal court. Nobody yet has dared advance the theory that the expensive Feller's arm has given out, but if he doesn't start winning soon, that'll be about the only explanation left.

THE FACT THAT Vic Raschi, the New York Yankees mound ace, is playing baseball at all is a wonder, considering what happened to his kid brother Gene . . . In 1938, when Gene was nine he was watching a baseball game when he was struck over the right eye by a foul ball. A week later he lost the sight of his right eye. Eight years later when he was watching a ball game, a foul ball struck him on the forehead over the left eye. Three days later he was totally blind . . . Now he is attending a school for the blind in Boston. Occasionally he visits Yankee stadium for a ball game.

* * *

FRANK COLLEY, president of the Ohio-Indiana league, yesterday informed the brethren of the class D loop that starting the 24th, O-I managers may walk out to the mound for a consultation with their pitchers but twice per pitcher a game. After that, either the pitcher or the manager leaves the game. Managers are also restrained from protesting called strikes more than two times a game. If the games played in Lincoln park to date this season are any indication, the new ruling won't have much effect here, since managerial protests have been well scattered, though occasionally somewhat lengthy.

Williams, Boudreau, Musial Leading Poll

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 18 — Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Lou Boudreau of Cleveland maintained their one-two positions as individual vote getters in the major league All-Star baseball poll today, but there was a new man in third spot, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The balloting, which is being conducted by 448 newspapers, magazines and radio stations, will decide the starting lineup for the 15th annual All-Star game in St Louis July 13. Voting opened last Tuesday and will continue until midnight July 5.

Junior Legion Nine To Make Home Debut Against Mansfield

American Legion Junior baseball will make its debut locally tomorrow afternoon at McKinley park when the Nelson Irvin coached club entertains Mansfield in a non-league fray.

The game, formerly scheduled for Lincoln park, will get under way at 5.

A second game on the weekend card will be played at Galion Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Drawing mound duty for the opener will be Jim Edington, a right hander from Edison Junior High school. Jim Satter will receive. The Bird-McClimans Juniors will be looking for their second triumph, having defeated Shelby 4-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Ronald Larcom in an outside-the-league game Sunday.

The same lineup is expected to start tomorrow's game that went against Shelby, Coach Irvin said. At first will be Jack Deans; on second, Richard Cramer; shortstop, Dick Wolfe; third, Ronald Gerby; left field, Merle Daum; center field, George Stoffer, and right field, Bill Nickol.

These boys, plus Jim Edington, Jim Satter, Dick Thomas, Dick Leffler, Emmet Ledford, Dick Roseberry, Clyde Seedle, Dick Jones and Ronald Larcom will make up the 16 players whose names will be listed on the certificate of entry which will be submitted to Russ Tharp of Newark, head of the district league.

An individual player certificate of entry which includes the player's birth certificate, picture, name, age, fingerprints, and grade in school will be submitted to Pete De Wese at American Legion headquarters, Columbus, W. E. Orcutt, club manager, reported. "The records will travel with the team from the district tournament, to the regional, to the state tournament, and on to the national if the team should be fortunate enough to go that far," he said. The only way a player may be substituted after the certificate of entry has been sent to Columbus is in the event of the death of a player.

A make-up game will be played by the locals at Mt Vernon July 3. This will be a make-up of a league game which was rained out last Saturday.

BEARDEN PICKED TO HALT LOSING STREAK

Bosox Hand Indians Fourth Straight Setback, 8-6.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 18 — Lefthander Gene Bearden, top percentage hurler on the Cleveland Indians' mound staff, will uncork his mazda magic tonight in an attempt to halt the league-leaders' four-game losing streak against the runner-up Philadelphia Athletics.

The Indians, who have seen their pitching staff battered four straight times, suffered another defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox yesterday, 8-6.

Don Black, sidelined two weeks with a fractured toe, returned to action in quest of his third victory, but was sidetracked again in the first inning because of wildness. Steve Gromek put out the fire after three runs crossed the plate on two hits.

The Tribe rallied to tie the score in the bottom half of the frame on single by Larry Doby, Manager Lou Boudreau and Joe Gordon, sandwiched around Hank Edwards' double. Taking advanage of an error by Edwards that would have retired the side, Boston scored another trio of runs in the second, including Vern Stephens' two-run homer.

Gordon's ninth homer with one aboard and Ken Keltner's 16th circuit clout again deadlocked the count in the fourth inning, but the Indians fell behind when Don DiMaggio clouted a round tripper in the sixth.

The loss cut Cleveland's first place margin to two games over the A's, who have nominated Dick Fowler to oppose Bearden in the opener of a crucial four-game series.

TWO BLONDS TEE OFF IN COLLEGE FINALS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 18—Two blond college girls — one from Connecticut and the other from Kansas—teed off today in an 18-hole finale to the fourth annual National Women's Collegiate golf tournament.

One was Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., a junior at John B. Stetson university, Deland, Fla., the other Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kan., a freshman at the University of Kansas.

Miss Lenczyk, a Curtis Cup star and a veteran of tournament golf since she was 11 years old, was conceded the edge over the 19-year-old Kansas—principally because of her superior experience. Miss Smith played in her first tournament two seasons ago.

Yesterday Miss Lenczyk strode into the finals with a 6 and 5 verdict over Barbara Canine of Western Michigan. She had a two-under par medal of 36 for the out nine.

Miss Smith cut down Alice O'Neal of Rollins college, former Indiana State women's champion, by exactly the same margin, 6 and 5. Her medal, too, was 38 on the first nine.

MUNCIE TIGHTENS HOLD ON 1ST PLACE

Reds Beat Springfield Giants, 10 to 7.

By The Associated Press

Muncie had a tighter hold today on the Ohio-Indiana baseball loop's top position. The Reds boosted their lead to one and a half games by defeating Springfield 10-7 in the opening of a two-game series at Muncie Thursday night.

The Hoosiers had increased hitting power. Arnold Davis, right fielder who joined Muncie Wednesday on option from Ogden, Utah, made his debut by hitting a homer, a triple and a single in four trips to the plate. Davis smashed the homer over the right field fence, a distance of 380 feet.

Ken Lanning, the winning pitcher, now has eight wins and three defeats.

Manager Ray Hathaway took over the pitching assignment to end Zanesville's losing streak. Hathaway didn't allow anything but a scratch hit until the eighth when Lima got players on base without scoring. Two errors and three hits in the final inning cost Hathaway a shutout. The final score was 9-3 for Zanesville with all Lima runs unearned.

Portsmouth won a 10-3 victory over Richmond by pounding two Richmond pitchers for 15 hits. It gave pitcher Ed Morris six wins against four losses this season. Portsmouth catcher Tom Sicoloff was put out of the game in the fifth for arguing with the umpire over a called strike.

Four thousand fans attending a Shrine benefit at Newark saw the home club beat Marion 8-3. First baseman Ed Heck cracked out a homer in the fifth with the bases loaded. Bob Ogle also homered for Newark in the sixth with one on. Third baseman Schmitt knocked out a homer for Marion in the third.

BREWERS, SAINTS IN 2ND PLACE SCRAP

By The Associated Press

What promises to be a lively scrap for second place in the American Association baseball pennant race opens with a doubleheader at St. Paul tonight between second place Milwaukee and the third-place Saints—1½ games behind the Brewers.

Pace setting Indianapolis increased its margin over Milwaukee to 3½ games last night as Toledo scored two runs in the ninth to edge out the Brewers, 6 to 5, while Indianapolis was idle. St. Paul picked up half a game on the Indians by defeating Minneapolis, 7 to 3.

In the only other league game Columbus drove Louisville deeper into the cellar by downing the Colonels, 8 to 4. In an exhibition game at Kansas City, the New York Yankees edged out the Blues, 4 to 3.

Milwaukee led Toledo 4 to 0, at the end of the sixth inning. The Hens then scored two runs in each of the last three frames to win and snap a five-game Milwaukee winning streak.

St. Paul's lefty Morrie Martin stopped Minneapolis with eight hits, while his mates nicked Hub Andrews for 11.

Charlie Stanceau won his sixth game of the season for Columbus. The Red Birds rallied in the sixth and seventh innings to drive Louisville's Jack Robinson from the hill in the four-run seventh.

Magic Touch of Southworth Working Wonders on Voiselle

By The Associated Press

The magic touch of Billy Southworth is working wonders on still another ball player, pitcher Bill Voiselle.

The once disgruntled curve baller of the New York Giants has turned into the Boston Braves' biggest winner under the patient guidance of Boston Billy.

Last year Voiselle had won one and lost four when the Giants swapped him and cash for pitcher Mort Cooper. He righted himself almost at once and won eight while losing seven for the Braves. This season he's won seven and lost three, although he slumped after winning his first four games.

Wins 3 Yesterday

Two of those victories came yesterday against the Chicago Cubs. Voiselle came to the relief of Warren Spahn in the second inning of the first game of a twin bill. The Braves trailed, 5-0, but went on to win, 7-6. Then in the nightcap he was called upon in the ninth with the score tied, 7-7. He put out the side, then retired for pinch hitter Bill Salkeld. Salkeld drew a base on balls from Jess Dobernic with the bases loaded and forced in the winning run.

The pair of triumphs gave Boston undisputed possession of first place in the National league, a half game ahead of Pittsburgh.

The Pirates took the measure of the New York Giants, 9 to 8, despite four New York home runs. They came from behind on a homer by Ed Stevens with two aboard in the seventh, added four more in the eighth and then outlasted a four-run Giant rally in the last of the eighth.

Stan Musial feasted on Philadelphia pitching for the second straight game as the St Louis Cardinals whipped the Phillies, 4 to 1. Musial had a triple and two singles in three times at bat.

Reds Take Bums

Cincinnati beat Brooklyn, 5 to 3, in the other National league game. Rookie Howard Fox gave up all three runs in the first inning, but the Dodgers couldn't catch up with him after that.

Joe Hatten blew up in the fourth when he issued four walks and the Reds scored four runs.

Cleveland's front-running Indians suffered their fourth straight loss, this time to Boston, 8 to 6. The Indians stayed in the game until the sixth, when Dom DiMaggio put the Red Sox ahead to stay with a home run. Ken Keltner hit his 16th home run for Cleveland.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who move in to Cleveland tonight for a four game series, advanced within two games of the Indians by defeating Detroit, 5 to 2.

Washington was rained out of a night game in St. Louis and New York and Chicago in the American league weren't scheduled.

COOLER, FAIRFIELD, HUBER WIN GAMES

Three games in the Commercial No 2 softball loop last night resulted in a Cooler victory over M P S by a score of 5-2, a Fairfield win over Commercial, 10-0, and a 5-3 triumph for Huber over Pollak.

Cooler iced M.P.S. on the Shovelery' field in a hard-fought battle when pitcher Kunkle connected for a homer up the fourth to increase a 3-2 advantage gained in the second. Two five-run explosions by Fairfield in the second and sixth netted 10 runs on nine hits to overcome a four run lead acquired by Commercial in the top of the sixth. Ten strikeouts by Millisor featured the contest between Pollak and Huber.

Pollak	002 001 0—3 8 1
Huber	003 002 x—5 9 2

Commercial	332 001 0— 9 9 2

Southpaw Pitcher Inks Cub Contract

Another lefthanded pitcher inked a Marion Cub contract yesterday. He is Jim Austerson, 20, of Cincinnati.

Austerson was signed by Tony Lucadello, who also picked up Bill Adkins from the Cincinnati sandlots.

Austerson stand five feet ten, weights 165. He has had no professional experience.

He joined the Cubs at Newark yesterday.

Hilliards Schedules Racing Doubleheader

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, June 18 — Alert Hilliards raceway will come up tomorrow with an idea that is certain to attract the attention of other harness meeting promoters.

The Hilliards interests have scheduled a double header for the Franklin county fairgrounds layout where they currently are operating a 19-day meeting.

One full slate of races will be run in the afternoon and another at night.

Normally, the Hilliards organization operates altogether under the lights.

The twin-bill is an outgrowth of rain which spoiled last Saturday's scheduled inaugural.

The state racing commission, less lenient than it was a year ago, has refused to sanction extension of race meetings to compensate for time lost because of inclement weather.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Philadelphia . . . Three women delegates are here wearing the old look. So are the candidates . . . The old hungry look.

* * *

And some members of the American Society of Magicians have dropped over from Atlantic City . . . They want to see the convention make eight candidates disappear.

* * *

So far there are no volunteers for the vice presidency . . . Not even Wallace or Truman want it this year and they've had it.

* * *

Rumors that Mr. Truman might withdraw as a candidate are not believed in Philadelphia . . . The feeling is that no man ever hung up the phone on a contest offering $75,000 a year and free use of a house, yacht, plane, and combined networks.

* * *

As one delegate put it . . . "Offered a choice between something and nothing an average man unhesitatingly accepts something."
